

The Secret: You Don't Start from Zero.

“You may be competing with projects that have been operating for months or years.”

In reality, I won with a project that was already working (Agent posting to twitter) but I extended it to use technology that was sponsoring one of the hackathon tracks.

Focus on building a base of code and materials that you can use for future hackathons.